Rock of Ages rocked

By Stephen Dafoe

Several months of effort paid off for Camilla School's Drama program over two days and three shows of Rock of Ages: Youth Edition. The musical brought classic 1980s rock songs to the stage to tell the story of fame and romance.

Rock of Ages: Youth Edition is set in Los Angeles in 1987 and tells the story of country girl Sherrie (a small town girl) and Drew (from South Detroit). Both have come to Los Angeles to chase their dreams.

The roughly 90-minute show brought together a large cast of students to fill a large number of roles with some students performing songs from 20 different classic rock and hair metal bands for the three shows.

Director and Camilla teacher Chris Layton said he gave the performers the list of songs back in December and encouraged them to learn the lyrics over the Christmas break.

"We've been at it a couple of hours every week. We have two casts, so one would come on Tuesdays, and one would come on Wednesdays," Layton said. "As it moved to April, we moved that to two a week, and we also added Saturdays and then some Sundays. The kids who were the main cast were giving up recess. The number of hours that went into this thing, I can't even fathom it."

But the total hours, whatever they were paid off in applause and appreciation from the audience.

Morinville Online attended the Tuesday afternoon matinee performance for area schools and parents, and the applause was consistently enthusiastic throughout the show.

"These kids have worked so hard, and they love these songs," Layton said of the students' enthusiasm for the material.

"They love these songs. Some musicals, the songs are all new, but these are songs that their parents listen to. They are songs that they now run around the hall singing these songs, I'm just proud as punch that they're listening to the music that I grew up with and loving it."

Layton went on to say that ticket sales for Rock of Ages were triple the tickets sold for the school's last production, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

Stitching Smilers share laughs as well as sewing techniques

By Stephen Dafoe

The Morinville Rendez-Vous Centre was filled with the whirring and clanking of sewing machines and the laughter of roughly 20 women who had gathered for a three-day sewing retreat over the May 5 weekend.

The Stitching Smilers group, which Morinville resident Anita Derouin started about a year ago, has grown from a handful of members to 19 in just 13 months.

"It's wonderful. All these ladies are coming out to get to know each other," Derouin said, noting that men are welcome, too. "I didn't want it advertised as a quilting group. It is a sewing group, and if you want to do hand sewing, if you want to make clothes, just come out and enjoy the company of others."

The Stitching Smilers welcome sewers of all types and skill levels. The group meets once a month to share laughs and techniques, although Derouin said there is a desire to meet twice a month.

"It's usually the first Friday of the month, and then whatever two weeks later turns out to be," Derouin said. "We meet from nine to four, and we're very fortunate that our husbands chip in, and they set up all the tables and take them down for us, so the ladies don't have to."

From May 5 to 7, the Stitching Smilers gathered for their first weekend retreat, smiling, sewing and laughing for 30 hours over three days.

"It's marathon sewing. We get a lot of laughs. We get a lot of projects done - sometimes, if we're not laughing too much," Derouin said. "We have a few ladies that are not from Morinville. They're from Edmonton, but they've been coming for a year. The group members said, 'We'll put you up, no problem.'"

Morinville resident

Kim Gosselin is a group member that attended the three-day retreat. "I love quilting, and I love the camaraderie,"

Gosselin said. "It's like therapy in a way - sitting down sewing, and when I'm with other women, it's the camaraderie." Another attendee of the three-day event Cathy Turner, a Winnipeg resident whose family has origins in the Morinville area going back more than 100 years. "My cousin, of course, still lives here on a farm, and when I heard she was doing a retreat with her sewing group, I said, 'I'm in,'" Turner said.

"I left Wednesday morning and drove 1400 kilometres. To get together and sew with others and see what everyone else is doing. You get inspired. You learn techniques, and you just share. Quilters and sewers are really good at sharing and teaching each other."

With nineteen members and growing, Derouin encourages other sewers and quilters to join the fun.

"Come out, have fun, meet some like-minded people, and have some laughs," Derouin said.

"We all give and share advice, which is always helpful. You can always learn something."

For more information on joining the group, contact the Morinville Rendez-Vous Centre at 613-406-5107.
